

Moresby Island Trails

Spit Trail

An easy trail mostly along the shores of the “Spit” and following the airport fence
 Popular with local hikers and runners - Plan a couple of hours to allow for beachcombing - Plenty of parking space - Multiple extensions possible along the shores - The exposed “spit” at low tide can be dangerous - strong currents - no swimming - You can find this trail and many others by activating “public trails” in the Gaia GPS app

Parking area

Dover trail and Haans Creek loop - Damaxyaa Heritage Site/ Conservancy

Follow a beautiful creek and hike through an old growth forest

Parking space limited and along main road

Moderate - plan 2 hours to complete

Use at your own risk - it can be muddy and slippery, roots and branches can be in the way

Dogs should be kept on a leash in the Conservancy Extensions to the trail can be hard and slippery
Bear country

Dover trail extensions on BC Hydro Hill

A network of trails built and maintained by local trail builder Remi!

Parking space limited and along main road

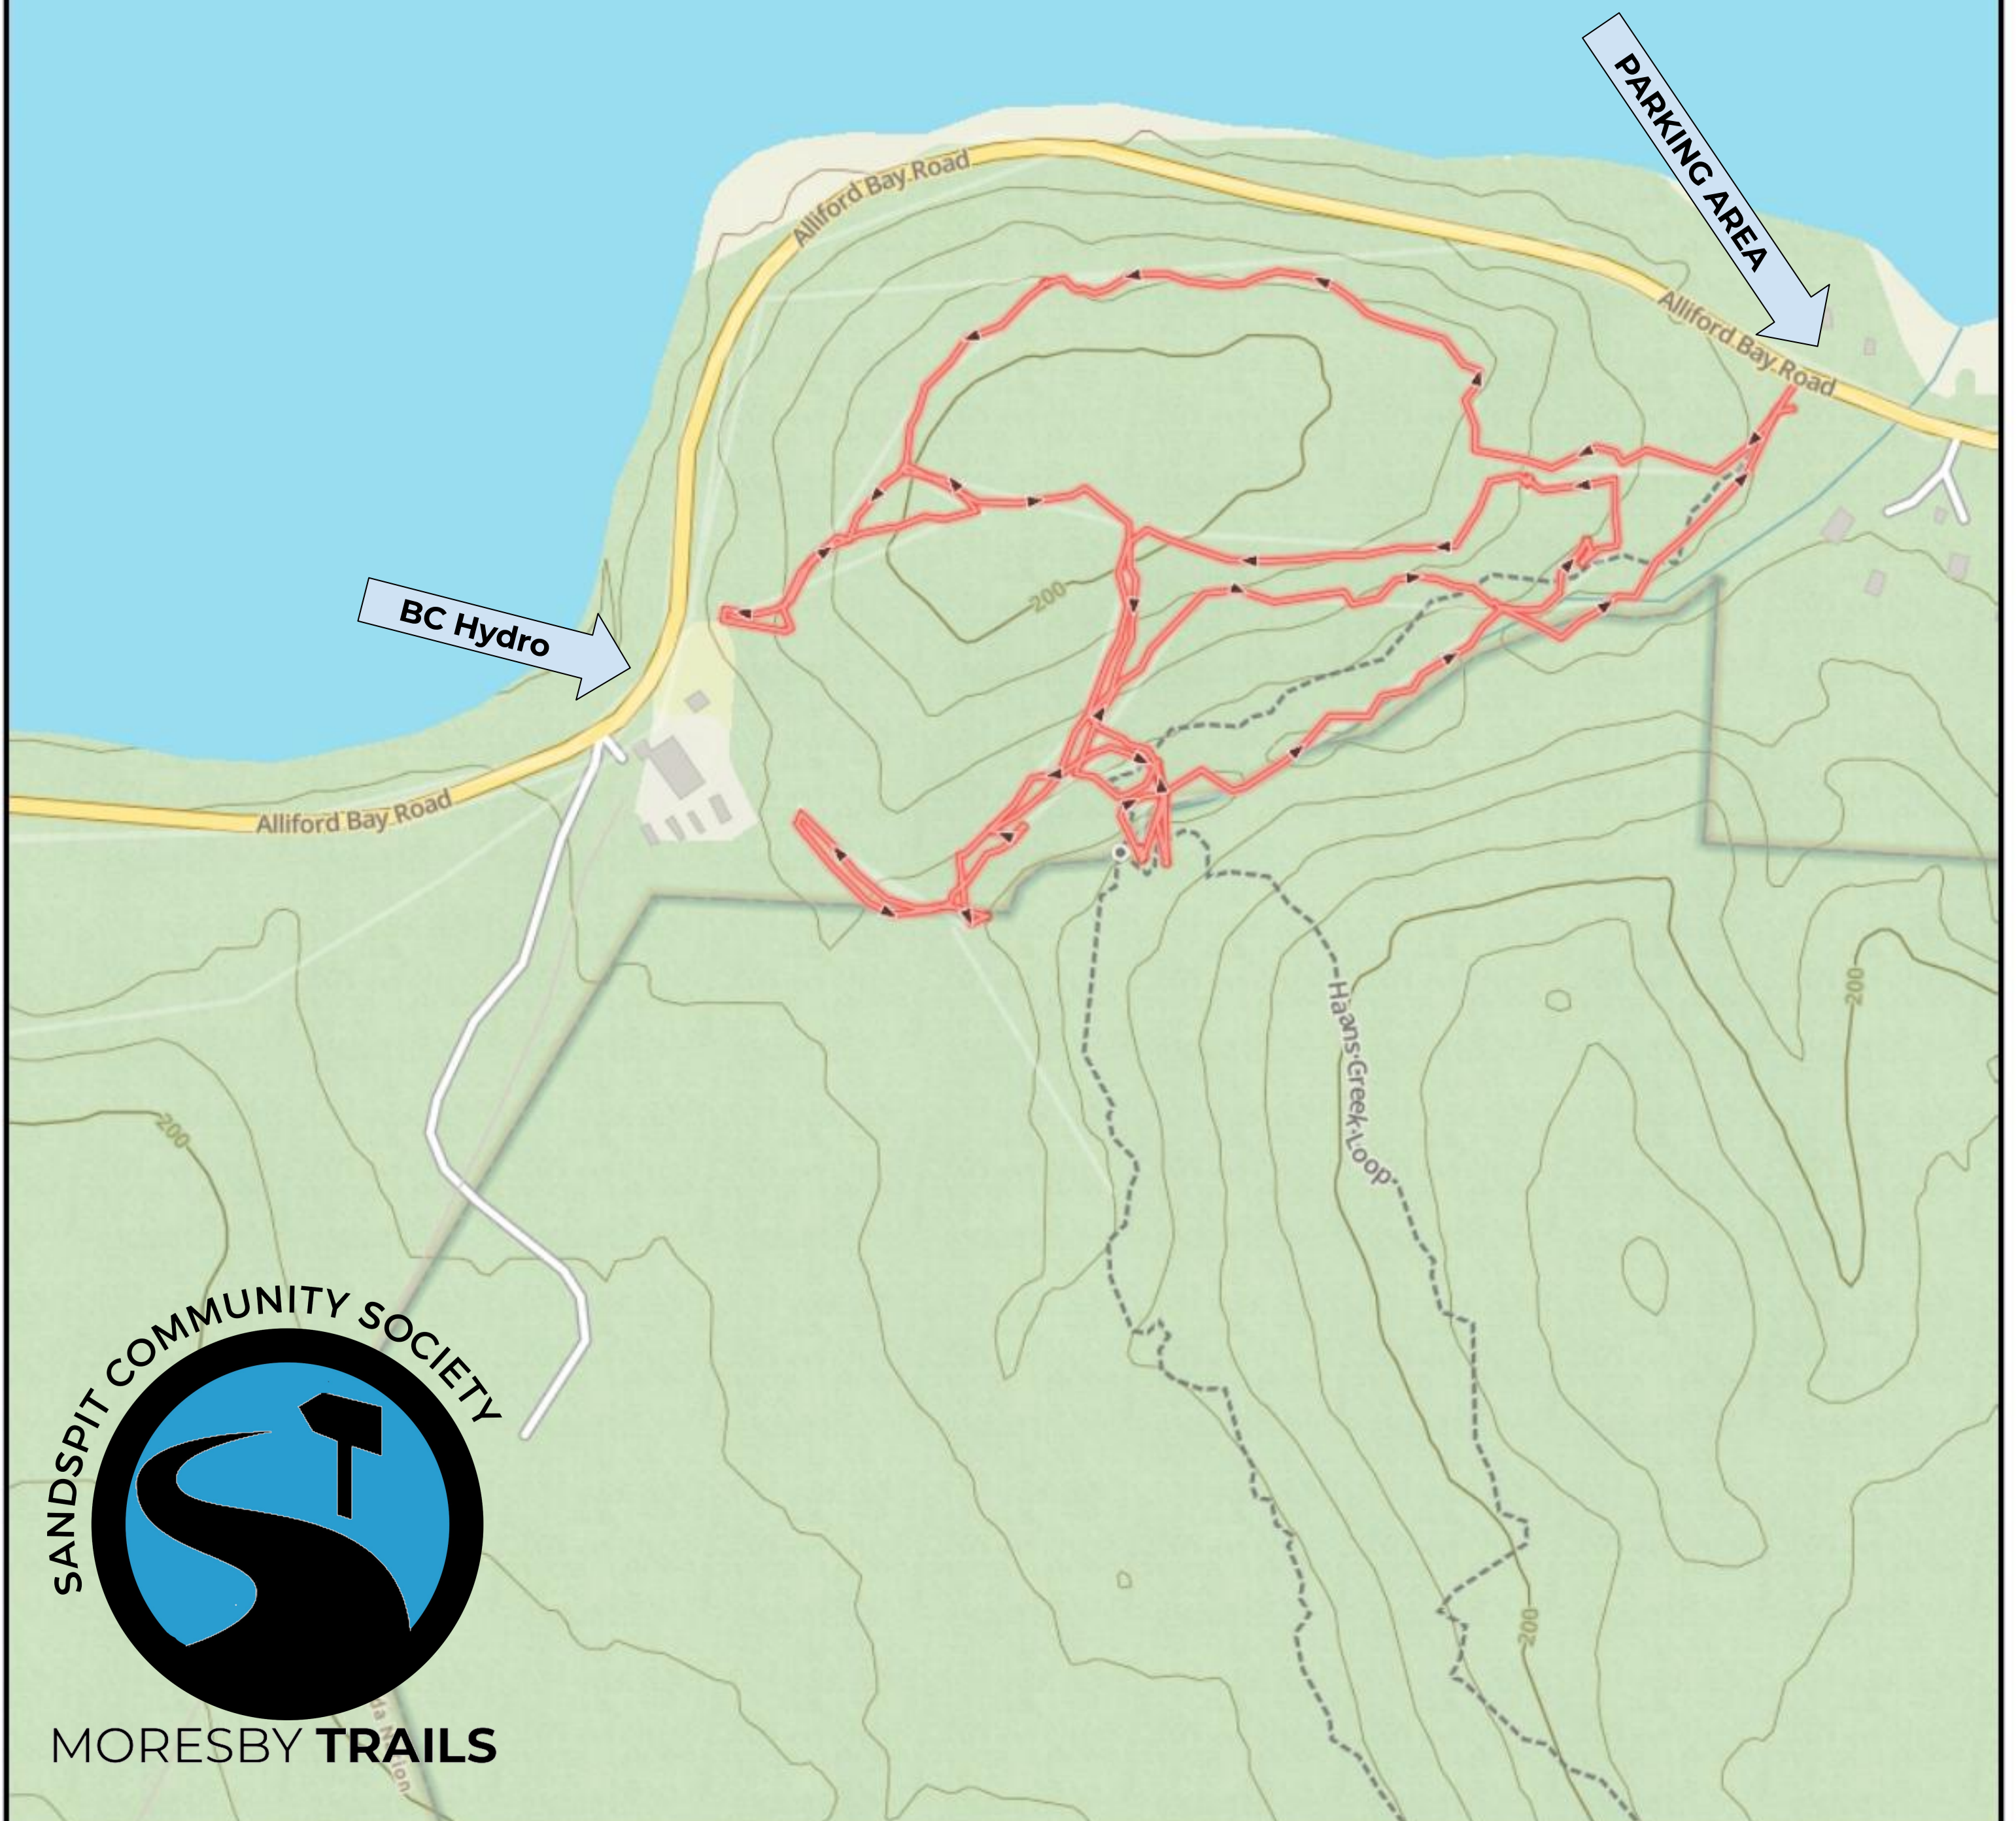

Same trailhead as the Dover Trail - follow white square markers

Moderate - Use at your own risk - it can be muddy and slippery, roots and branches can be in the way

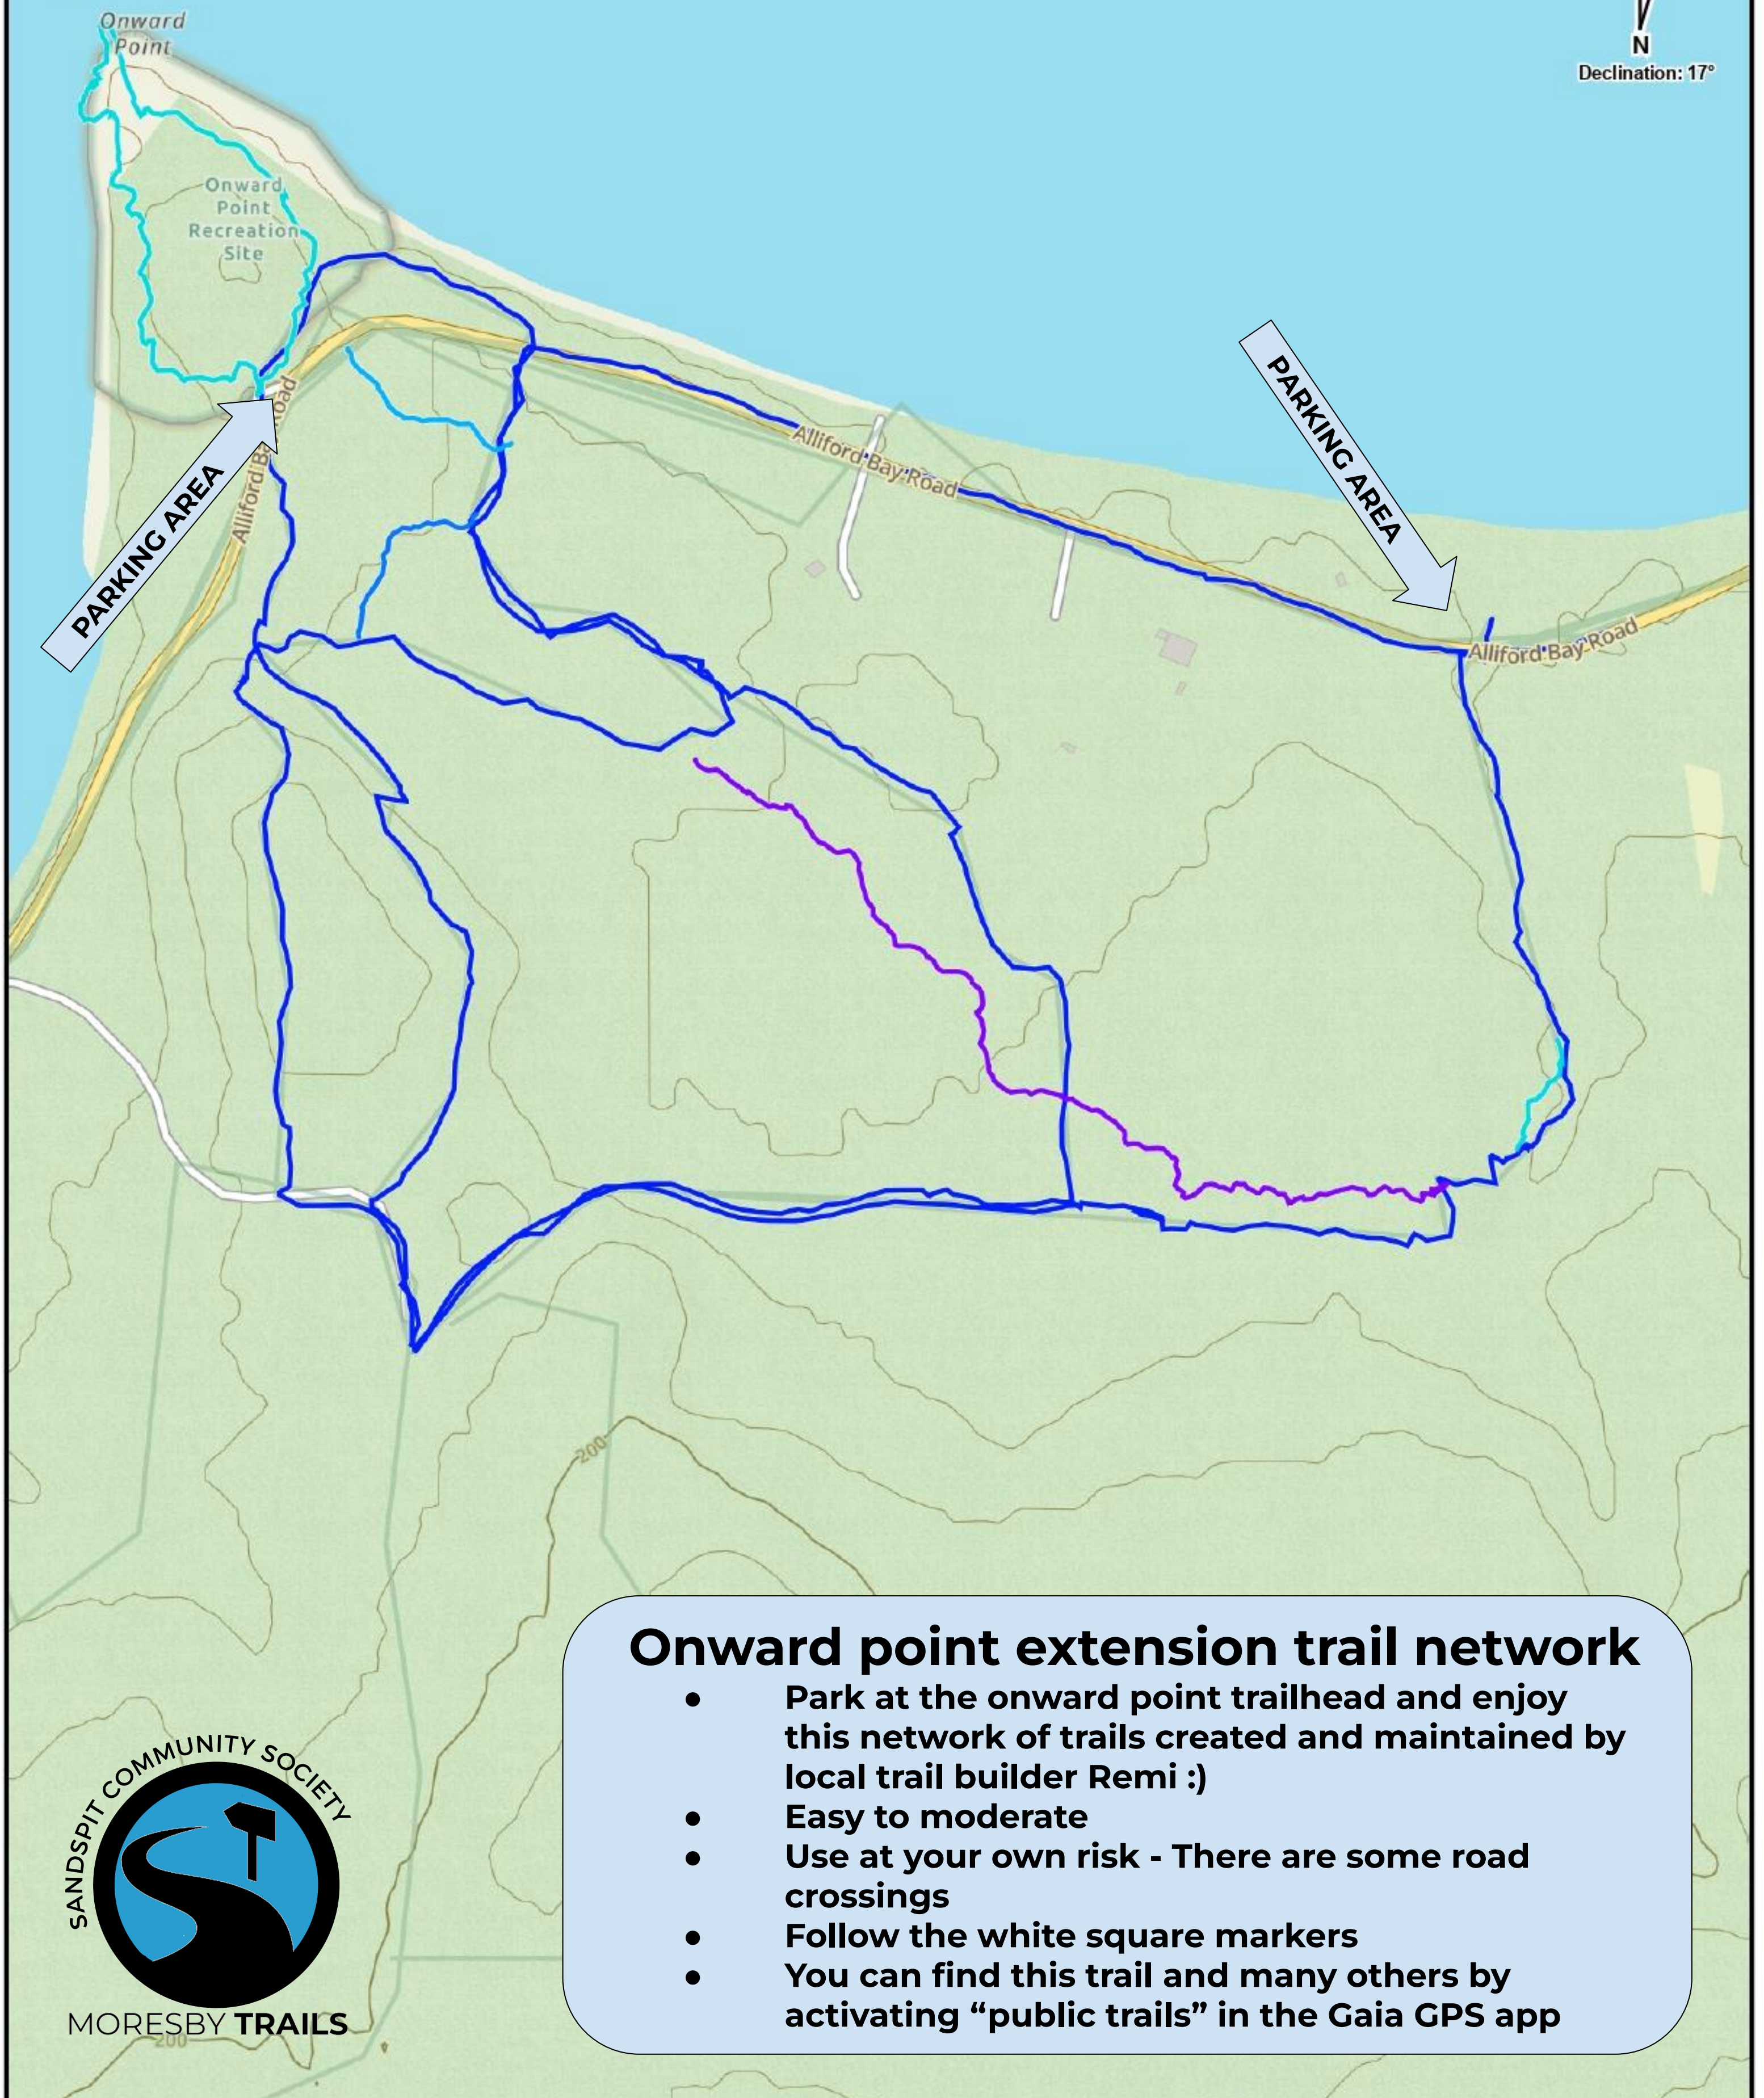

Dogs should be kept on a leash in the Conservancy

Bear country

You can find this trail and many others by activating "public trails" in the Gaia GPS app

MORESBY TRAILS

Onward point extension trail network

- Park at the onward point trailhead and enjoy this network of trails created and maintained by local trail builder Remi :)
- Easy to moderate
- Use at your own risk - There are some road crossings
- Follow the white square markers
- You can find this trail and many others by activating “public trails” in the Gaia GPS app

Hatchery Loop trail

Park at the Sandspit Salmon Enhancement Society's hatchery. 1 or 2 vehicles can park max. Please leave the hatchery accessible to volunteers and helpers. Respect the place and pack out all garbage.

This pretty loop takes the hiker up on a ridge with some views of Skidegate inlet through the trees. The loop listed here uses the "high road", an older deactivated logging road, to complete the loop. It is also possible to come back on the beach by using one of the many beach access points. This is another trail built by local hero Remi. The trail is user maintained. Bear country. You can find this trail and many others by activating "public trails" in the Gaia GPS app

Beach access

Hatchery

Declination: 17°

Onward Point
Recreation Site

Allford Bay Road

SANDSPIT COMMUNITY SOCIETY

MORESBY TRAILS

Kwuna Point trail

A pleasant loop with great views of Skidegate Inlet - user maintained - plan an hour to complete the loop - Moderate to easy - Please "leave no trace" - You can find this trail and many others by activating "public trails" in the Gaia GPS app

Dogfish Bay loop

This is a fairly challenging trail that should take a fit hiker about 4-5 hours to complete. Park at the trailhead to Secret Cove trail, just off Gray Bay road. From Secret Cove, find the trail that starts in the woods and passes on top of the cliff and heads north. It is best to start the hike on a low tide as some walking will be on rocky shores and boulders. Portions of the route can be slippery, especially in inclement weather.

Bear country.

You can find this trail and many others by activating “public trails” in the Gaia GPS app

Mosquito Mountain route

This steep, challenging, but very rewarding route takes the hiker into some beautiful alpine areas, with lakes and ponds, and leads to some summits of Mosquito Mountain. A summit is a rocky outcrop that is challenging to reach, the other is a beautiful and fairly easy ridge with great 360 views on a clear day. More exploration is possible from the alpine area, and it is possible to access the West coast. A boat or canoe is necessary to reach the trailhead to this hike, at the other end of Mosquito lake.

Bear country.

You can find this trail and many others by activating "public trails" in the Gaia GPS app

Vessel landing

Start of the climb

Ridge summit

High alpine

False Summit

Mount Moresby Route

This challenging and steep route takes the hiker into some rocky alpine terrain and all the way to the top of Haida Gwaii's tallest peak. The hiker should be well-prepared and well-equipped to complete this route safely. Watch out for weather change. Amazing vistas from the top. There is a longish approach to the trailhead as the logging road to the base is now deactivated. Biking could get the hiker to the trailhead faster. Bear country. You can find this trail and many others by activating "public trails" in the Gaia GPS app

Trailhead

Road deactivated from here